More Flavor, More Joy — Bonus Content Just for You..... 85

Introduction

Welcome

Summer isn't just a season — it's a feeling.

A time for lightness, warmth, and meals that nourish without stress.

If you're holding this book, chances are you're not looking for another strict diet or complicated food rules.

You're looking for something gentler. A way to eat well, feel well, and take care of your heart — with ease and enjoyment.

This book was created for adults 50 and up — people who've lived, learned, and now want to cook not for trends or pressure, but for peace of mind, for balance, and for the simple joy of a good meal.

There are no “don'ts” here.

Just an invitation to reconnect with your body,
to enjoy real food that's easy to prepare, full of flavor,
and kind to your heart.

This isn't about dieting — it's about building a new friendship with your body.

One that's based on listening, loving, and living well — one delicious bite at a time.

What Makes This Book Special

This isn't just another summer cookbook.

It's a gentle guide made with care — for those of us who want to eat well, feel well, and live fully, without stress or restriction.

Here, you won't find complicated steps, trendy ingredients, or pressure to be perfect.

What you will find is a relaxed approach to heart-healthy cooking that fits your life — whether you're using a backyard grill, a small oven on the balcony, or just a pan in the kitchen.

Each recipe in this book is:

- Low in sodium, sugar, and fat — but full of warmth and flavor
- Designed to be simple and approachable, even if you've never grilled before
- Built for flexibility — so you can cook indoors or outdoors, for one or for many
- Meant to support your heart, energy, and peace of mind

This book isn't about cutting things out.

It's about welcoming in a new way to cook that feels good, tastes good, and gives your body the kindness it deserves.

Whether you're cooking for yourself, for a partner, or for family, you'll find comfort here — not just in the meals, but in the way they make you feel.

Our Gentle Approach to Health

Eating well after 50 isn't about cutting everything out — it's about choosing what feels good and supports your body, without sacrificing the joy of food.

In this book, we focus on three gentle shifts that can make a big difference for your heart, your energy, and your comfort.

Less Sodium, More Soul

Too much salt can weigh heavily on the heart — but that doesn't mean you have to live with bland food.

We use herbs, citrus, garlic, and bold natural flavors to keep things bright and satisfying.

Salt takes a step back, but flavor steps forward — full of depth, not deprivation.

Lower Sugar, Steadier Energy

We keep added sugars to a minimum, offering alternatives that let your blood sugar (and mood!) stay steady.

Naturally sweet ingredients like roasted veggies, fruits, and warm spices help bring gentle pleasure without the crash.

Light on Fat, Full of Satisfaction

Heavy fats can slow digestion and strain the heart.

Here, we choose lighter oils, grill instead of fry, and let the food's natural richness shine through — so you still feel nourished, not weighed down.

Honoring Traditional American Flavors

We know that food is deeply personal — it carries memories, family traditions, and comfort.

That's why you'll find gentle nods to classic American favorites throughout this book.

Think foil-wrapped fish like you used to make on camping trips, grilled corn with herbs instead of butter, or a lemony chicken that brings back Sunday dinners — just reimagined in a way that's kinder to the heart.

This isn't about being perfect.

It's about choosing meals that help you feel clearer, lighter, and more at home in your own body — one bite at a time.

How to Use This Book

This book is meant to be as easy to enjoy as the recipes inside.

You'll find two recipes on most pages — organized simply, with clear labels for:

- Cooking method (Grill, Oven, Foil Packet, or Stovetop)
- Time needed
- Number of servings
- And quick, easy-to-follow steps

You don't need fancy equipment or special ingredients.

Some days you may feel like firing up the grill.

On other days, your oven or a small electric grill on the balcony will do just fine.

Every recipe is designed with flexibility in mind — so you can adapt to your space, your tools, and your energy level.

You can read the book straight through, or flip to whatever catches your eye.

Use it to plan a full week of heart-friendly meals — or just for inspiration when you want something simple and satisfying.

Most of all, this book is here to support you — not overwhelm you.

Cooking can be joyful again — a small act of care for your body, your heart, and your peace of mind.

A Gentle Note Before You Begin

You don't need to prove anything here.

This book isn't about being perfect. It's not about tracking, counting, or doing everything "right."

It's about finding peace in your plate, and maybe even a little joy in the kitchen again.

You've already made a powerful choice — to care for yourself in a loving, sustainable way.

That's worth celebrating.

You deserve meals that feel good before, during, and after you eat them.

Meals that support your heart without hurting your spirit.

Meals that remind you: you're still allowed to enjoy life, to slow down, to savor.

So take this book in your hands like a trusted friend.

Let it sit on your counter. Let it get splashes and flour dust.

Let it become part of your rhythm — not as something you follow, but something that follows you.

Here's to grilling with love, cooking with ease, and eating with joy.

Let's begin.

Wishing you flavor, balance, and joy.

With care and gratitude,

Leonora

Grilling Made Gentle Tools, Safety & Options for Every Home

You don't need a big backyard, a fancy smoker, or a complicated gas setup to enjoy summer grilling.

Grilling can be simple, safe, and incredibly satisfying — even from your kitchen or balcony.

This section is here to help you feel confident and comfortable, no matter where or how you cook.

Grill Where You Are

Whether you have a classic charcoal grill, a small gas unit, a plug-in electric grill, or just an oven — this book is for you.

Most recipes can be easily adapted to:

- Outdoor grill (charcoal, gas, or electric)
- Indoor grill (tabletop or stovetop pan)
- Oven (using a rack or foil packet)
- Balcony-safe options (like contact grills or grill pans)

Each method can bring out beautiful flavors — it's not about the equipment, it's about the intention.

Simple Tools to Make It Easier

You don't need a lot of gadgets. A few reliable items can make grilling smoother and safer:

- Long-handled tongs or spatula
- Heat-resistant gloves or oven mittens
- A basting brush (for marinades)
- Foil sheets or grill trays
- A kitchen timer (to keep things stress-free)
- Optional: a small wire rack for oven-style grilling

Safety First, Always

No matter how or where you cook, a few gentle reminders go a long way:

- Keep a damp towel nearby (just in case of heat or smoke)
- Always use foil when cooking in the oven or on the balcony
- Never leave food unattended, even if it's "just a few minutes."
- Let foil packets rest for a moment before opening — the steam can be hot!
- If using a grill pan indoors, crack a window or turn on the fan

Adapt & Enjoy

If a recipe calls for grilling but it's raining — pop it in the oven.

If your grill flares up — switch to foil and finish low and slow.

There are no rules here, just options. You're in charge, and your comfort matters most.

Remember:

Grilling isn't about fire and flair — it's about bringing flavor to the table, safely and joyfully.

You've got this.

About the Author

Hi, I'm Leonora Key — and I believe that nourishing yourself well after 50 isn't about willpower or perfection. It's about kindness. It's about rhythm. It's about choosing foods that love you back.

For me, food has always been more than just fuel. It's a gentle tool for healing, clarity, and joyful aging — especially when life shifts, energy dips, or focus feels harder to hold.

I don't come from culinary school.

I come from a small kitchen filled with cinnamon, stories, and warmth — and a mother who taught me that healing begins with a wooden spoon and an open heart.

That's why I write cookbooks for real people who want real change.

For those seeking small, lasting shifts — made with simplicity and love.

For those who want to cook not to impress, but to feel well.

This book was born out of sunshine, simplicity, and the joy of summer cooking.

I wanted to create something that captured the feeling of grilling outdoors — the breeze on your skin, the scent of herbs in the air, the ease of food shared under an open sky.

Even if you're cooking indoors, I hope this book brings that same sense of lightness to your kitchen.

This cookbook is part of the EatWell 50+ series — a collection created to nourish body, brain, and spirit in the second half of life.

Every page is designed to offer ease, warmth, and a soft place to land.

If this book brought you peace, clarity, or even one small shift in how you care for yourself — I'm truly honored.

You're why I write.

Stay well. Stay vibrant.

There's so much more to savor, discover, and enjoy — in your own way, and in your own time.

With gratitude and care,
